

Learn to Live the Life You Want!

You won't live the life you want until you learn the patterns that are blocking you and how to change them. Are you tired of not getting the results you want and unable to break free from feeling stuck? Learn how you're holding yourself back and discover internal resources that will help you establish new, rewarding ways to live. Discover the power of connecting to your own emotions as a way to transform your life. Find your own best answers through an accelerated learning experience by participating in a process where you create the outcomes you want. Our Weekend Experience is a transformative experience where individuals, pairs, families, friends, and co-workers create lasting change in their lives.

"I have become calmer, happier, and less depressed and anxious. I've learned to let go of worry more easily. My joy has increased as I participate more fully in the present moment. My self-confidence has also increased as I've learned to become more assertive and create healthier boundaries for myself. My work as a counselor has improved as well. My workdays run more smoothly, and my relationships with my co-workers and clients are more enjoyable. Overall, I feel happier and more thankful." Sheila W., Counselor

Since 1991, DTP-Leadership Group, LP has facilitated group experiences. Liz Cloud and Jackalyn Rainosek, PhD and their team of facilitators collectively have ten decades of experience working with individuals and the transformative process. Hundreds of individuals have participated in discovering their blocks and implementing changes that improved not only their personal lives, but also their professional and business lives. This experiential approach is an innovative and interactive process that transforms individuals and ultimately organizations.

After this course you will be able to:

- Enjoy richer relationships with family, friends, and co-workers
- Process rather than avoid feelings and release blocked emotions
- Find new sources of internal strength
- Learn effective ways to work with difficult people in your life both personally and professionally
- Develop creative solutions to life changes
- Give and receive responses in ways that make everyone a winner
- Establish new patterns that help you reach your goals
- Understand how the food you eat contributes to your emotional and physical well-being and can either help or interfere with making positive changes
- Implement your learnings immediately
